

Auto-Posting, Sharing and Re-Sharing

How do I automatically re-share posts on social media?

Keep your social media feed updated automatically with awesome content and save valuable time for reviving your evergreen content and images.

Re-sharing your evergreen content automatically helps you to revive old posts automatically and revive your best content from time to time. Automatic re-posts also make it easy for you to create your perfect mix of evergreen content with new posts and curated content to keep your social feeds interesting, rich, and diverse. Automate your resharing process with Blog2Social, so you can use your valuable time to create new content and interact with your community.

It's easy: Define which blog posts, pages or custom post types you would like to revive, as well as the time and interval. Blog2Social will automatically re-share posts and fill your social media feeds for you automatically.

Depending on your Blog2Social license, your re-sharing queue can be filled with 25 (Smart), 50 (Pro) or 100 (Business) posts in total.

Select from the upper left drop-down menu how many posts should be added to your queue. You can choose to add 5-100 posts. If you try to add more posts than your quota allows, Blog2Social will fit as many posts as possible from your selection. This also applies if there are already posts in your queue. You can see your queue below the settings.

You can combine multiple options to exactly define the posts you want.

For example, if you want to re-post only selected posts (marked as favorite post) and only the most recent posts from a specific category and from a specific author, you can combine your settings as follows:

1. Post Types [Post]
2. Date [01.01.2021 - [28.07.2021]
3. Categories [Social Media]
4. Authors [Alexander]
5. Only include favorite posts
7. Consider only posts that have been shared a maximum of "x" times

Troubleshooting "No posts found"

If you receive the message "No posts found" after clicking "Add to queue" please check whether your selected filters apply to posts on your website or try again with different filter options. Please be aware that the Re-sharer can only share posts that have already been published on your website.
