Autoposting, Sharing und Re-Sharing

How do I share posts from other users/authors/editors on my website?

With Blog2Social you can share any post or page from your website on social media that you are allowed to see and edit.

Blog2Social operated based on the WordPress user roles. WordPress users with admin rights can share every blog post and page created on your blog/website, while users with author rights, for example, can only share their own blog posts.

You can also share content from any other sources that are not published on your website, either per RSS import (How to auto post imported RSS feeds and blog posts on Social Media) or by using the "Create Social Media Posts" feature for creating, sharing or curating social media posts with text, links, images or videos.
